Drug bust at airport

▶ YVR security screeners charged in drug export plot ▶ Alleged drug courier caught with 14.7 kilograms of ecstasy in backpack

PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

Two airport security screeners are facing drug charges after allegedly helping a third man sneak in a backpack of ecstasy through Vancouver International Airport.

According to the RCMP, the plan was busted after Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) officers stopped a 20-year-old Vancouver man in the post-security section of the U.S. departure gates on May 9.

"During questioning, the subject admitted to carrying drugs in his backpack," RCMP Const. Michael McLaughlin said in a statement on Thursday. "The subject was arrested and escorted to the CBSA secondary area for examination, where CBSA officers located 14.77 kilograms of suspected MDMA (ecstasy) in the ... backpack."

An investigation uncovered an alleged drug-export conspiracy involving two uniformed preboarding screening officers working for a company contracted by the Canadian Air Transport Security Authority.

Police have arrested Gurvinder Singh Pahl, 24, of Richmond and Ajitpal Singh Judge, 31, of Surrey.

They are each facing charges of trafficking, possession, conspiracy and breach of trust. Pahl is facing an additional charge for failure to comply with a probation order.

The two men have been released on bail and will make their next court appearance on June 15 at the Richmond Provincial Court.

A third man, Dylan Scott Green, has been charged with possession for the purpose of trafficking and conspiracy to traffic a controlled substance.

Transgender rights bill lands in legislature

A Vancouver MLA hopes his bill will be a small step towards ending discrimination against transgender individuals in British Columbia.

Spencer Chandra-Herbert stood in the legislature Thursday and introduced a bill that would amend the provincial Human Rights Code to include protection for gender identity and gender expression.

The New Democrat says special protection is required because transsexuals, transgenderists, inter-sexed persons, cross dressers and other groups continue to suffer in society.

"I hear some horrific stories of discrimination, violence and poverty from this community," said Chandra-Herbert. "A lot of it comes from a lack of understanding and it's our jobs as MLAs to stand up for every British Columbian."

Marie Little, the chair of the Trans Alliance Society, said discrimination against transgender people makes it difficult for people to hold down steady jobs or even find steady housing.

Little said many of the services for transgender people in B.C. are run by Vancouver Coastal Health, leaving many others without a support network.

Specific recognition of rights by the provincial government would "be a big step, but only one step in a long road," she said.

▶ A customer walks past a sale sign at a Target store in Miami, Florida. On Thursday, the chain announced the locations of its first Canadian stores, including five in the Lower Mainland and 15 across the province.

Target zeroes in on Lower Mainland

Target stores will be opening in all 10 provinces, including 15 stores in B.C. Not all shoppers are excited for cheap and trendy threads

SAHARA GIANNONE
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

Vancouver bargain shoppers will no longer have to arm themselves with a passport and make the long trek across the border to shop at Target.

The company announced its first 105 Canadian store locations Thursday, including five in the Lower Mainland, replacing certain Zellers stores in early 2013.

Lower Mainland locations include stores at Metropolis at Metrotown, Coquitlam Centre, Scottsdale Mall in Delta, Haney Place Mall in Maple Ridge and Oakridge Shopping Centre in Vancouver.

"This is good news," said 21-year-old Vancouver resident Shelley Chang. "I like Target and Vancouver needs more of these bigger players.

"Target has a lot of affordable designer collections as opposed to Zellers, and the quality is much better."

For some people, however, Target is not so welcoming. "I don't think it will be good for all the small businesses in the Lower Mainland, as they are already losing out to bigger companies such as Walmart," said 25-year-old Vancouverite Lisa Lopez.

Entry to Canada

The retail industry has been waiting for Target to confirm new locations for about six months.

▶ In January, Target announced it was buying up to 220 leaseholds from Zellers, paying half of the $1.82 billion purchase to owner Richard Baker.

Surviving the Stanley Cup finals

BEER
No playoff finals kit would be complete without beer. Goes well with victory, or defeat. And once empty, it can be used to bottle Lighting (if Tampa advances).

BEAR SPRAY
This would be really fitting if Vancouver plays the Bruins. But otherwise it's good for warding off rioters.

Finals schedule released

Vancouver fans will have to wait until Wednesday to see their Canucks take on either the Boston Bruins or Tampa Bay Lightning in the Stanley Cup finals.

The Canucks will host Games 1 and 2 at home on Wednesday and Saturday next week.

Games 3 and 4 will be away on June 8 and 10.

And if needed, the series will return to Vancouver for Games 5 and 7 (June 10 and 15) and away for Game 6 (June 13).

All games start at 5 p.m.

Canada's newest Emily of New Moon

Twilight saga actress/musician talks about trying to break free of stereotype

JULIA DILWORTH
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

You may not recognize her without the scar makeup, but Canadian Tinsel Korey wants you to know she is more than just a First Nations actress.

"I keep joking that I don't want to be in any more movies where a drum is following me around," said the 31-year-old who starred opposite Robert Pattinson's hair and Kristen Stewart's pout as the beautifully scarred wolf-pack girlfriend Emily Young.

Appearing in New Moon, Eclipse and the November 2011 release Breaking Dawn Part 1, Korey was happy to be part of the iconic Twilight saga, but finds it a challenge to get away from being cast strictly in First Nations roles.

"The cultural side is beautiful, but there are so many women of colour who don't get to be just characters. … They have to always have this cultural element."

While filming her lead in the movie Stained, her director was under pressure to justify choosing an aboriginal actress. Higher-ups wanted to add the First Nations cultural aspect, but the director just wanted Korey to play a character.

"I find the acting industry doesn't see people of colour and First Nations women in these lead roles — so that's been really challenging to be like, 'Hey, look at me in this light.'"

When filming her lead role in the movie Avarice in Vancouver, someone had knocked on her trailer and assumed she was the makeup artist.

"He didn't even think of me as being the lead," she said. "I think a lot of people would be surprised that nowadays that would still be sort of the case, but it is," she added.

This has led Korey to be pickier with her roles, choosing to work with film directors who see more "outside of the box."

As a musician as well as an actress, Korey said she is excited to have found some time to work on her album, something she's been putting together for several years.

Most of her songwriting has taken place in Vancouver — the city she considers her hometown. "I love writing when it's cloudy," she said. "There's so much artistic energy in Vancouver, and I pull a lot from here."

Her first single is Letter and it is available on iTunes.

When not singing or acting, Korey hesitantly revealed she likes to play a lot of Wii.

Art gallery goes surreal

- Vancouver Art Gallery exhibit was four years in the making
- Features works by René Magritte, Joan Miró and Salvador Dali

KRISTEN THOMPSON
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

Before Raffi's bananaphone, there was Salvador Dali's Lobster Telephone.

It may not be practical, but the surrealist object has been drawing crowds to galleries around the world for more than 70 years, and it's made a temporary home of the Vancouver Art Gallery.

The crustacean is one of 350 pieces of art on display at the gallery's new exhibition, The Colour Of My Dreams: The Surrealist Revolution In Art, which opens on Saturday.

"This is one of the most significant and ambitious exhibitions in the art gallery's history," said director Kathleen Bartels, who said galleries and collectors are often hesitant to lend pieces because surrealist art is rare.

CONTRIBUTED

▶ Lobster Telephone, by Salvador Dali, will be on display at the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Guest curator Dawn Ades said she hopes visitors come to realize that surrealism isn't a neat, tidy concept. Rather, it's a complex cultural movement founded not by artists but by poets.

"It was about language, the imagination, and paid homage to Sigmund Freud because of his discoveries about the unconscious and dreams," Ades said.

Artwork on display at the gallery includes sketches, photography, sculpture, film, paintings and even First Nations masks, representing the impact Northwest aboriginal culture had on surrealism in the 1930s.

"There is no one kind of surrealist art," Ades said. "(I want) to restore to surrealism the incredible diversity of ideas that fed into the visual arts and really transformed them."

Camp guides girls into their teen years

Camp Fun Girl runs from July 18 to 22, and July 25 to 29 at the YWCA on Hornby Street For more information, visit ywcavan.org/campfungirl

KRISTEN THOMPSON
@METRONEWS.CA

There are some who would argue it's hard for young girls to find good role models these days, with disgraced former child stars gracing the cover of so many magazines.

That, coupled with the endless pressure to become a flawless beauty, is why the YWCA runs Camp Fun Girl, which aims to empower young girls at the age when they're transitioning from childhood to teenagehood.

Lisa Hunt, co-ordinator of the YWCA youth program, said the camp helps girls between the ages of nine and 13 make healthy choices by fostering positive peer relationships and encouraging a healthy body image.

Exercise includes dance-fit classes, outdoor morning yoga and walks through Lynn Valley — all of which take the competition out of sport and are meant to help them build positive associations with exercise.

"There's lots of mentorship, role-modelling, examples of healthy relationships they can develop," said Hunt.

"We're also doing a photography workshop ... and will incorporate discussions around body image and the responsibility of having a camera."
LISA HUNT, CO-ORDINATOR OF THE YWCA YOUTH PROGRAM

She added it's important to encourage young girls to build relationships and interact with each other without computers and cellphones.

"Digitization has changed the way girls communicate," she said.

"Developing that sense of self and what's important to them ... will empower them to make healthy choices as they grow into adulthood, when more temptation and risk is out there."

Registration is open until July 11.

Bruni blasts sexism

France's first lady condemns comments that followed IMF chief's arrest
One politician said rape case was overblown — after all, 'nobody died'

France's first lady on Thursday backed an appeal by feminists condemning sexist comments that followed the arrest of then-IMF chief Dominique Strauss-Kahn.

Carla Bruni-Sarkozy supported the campaign "Sexism: they (men) lose it and women pay" on her official website.

More than 25,000 people have signed a petition organized by feminist groups condemning "misogynist comments by public figures" after Strauss-Kahn's arrest on charges of attempting to rape a hotel chambermaid.

Several commentators appeared to downplay the seriousness of the allegations or depicted Strauss-Kahn as the real victim — of rough American justice.

One politician said the case was being overblown — after all, "nobody died."

A prominent writer dismissed the alleged crime with a vulgar expression roughly meaning "getting into the maid's skirts."

House arrest ... in a spiffy jail

Disgraced Dominique Strauss-Kahn has moved into a plush, four-bedroom brick townhouse in Manhattan.

He will remain there under house arrest and on $1 million US bail as he awaits trial on charges he tried to rape a hotel maid.

Strauss-Kahn's agreement is expected to cost him about $200,000 a month. That doesn't include rent on his new digs, which were advertised for $50,000 a month in an online listing

The stately red brick town home is in Manhattan's Tribeca district, according a person familiar with his housing arrangements.

The building, which has five bathrooms, is located on a cobblestone street in one of the city's most posh neighbourhoods.

It also is close to the courthouse where he will attend hearings.

The townhouse includes a state-of-the-art theatre, gym, spa and four bathrooms with jetted tubs and steam showers.

Student dies after explosion in shop class

An 18-year-old student at a suburban Ottawa high school died after a drum with oil residue inside exploded in a shop class Thursday.

The student at Mother Teresa Catholic High School was identified as Eric Leighton.

When paramedics arrived the student had no vital signs, meaning he was "clinically dead," said Joe Micucci, director of operations for the Ottawa Paramedic Service.

They were able to revive him and the teen was listed in critical condition in hospital, but he later died Thursday night.

Five other people suffered non-life-threatening injuries, said a police spokesperson. JESSICA SMITH

Neighbours of nuclear plant in Japan make brief return

Two-hour visits the first for residents since March Towns once thought safe are being evacuated

Donning white protective suits, neighbours of Japan's radiation-leaking nuclear plant returned home Thursday for the first time since March, when the crisis began.

They barely had time to fill garbage bags with belongings and pray at a makeshift shrine before they had to leave.

Some residents lit incense in Namie, one of the deserted, evacuated towns frozen in time since March 11. Debris is still piled several storeys high there, with a ship resting precariously atop one heap.

Tens of thousands of people were evacuated from towns near the plant soon after Japan's massive March 11 earthquake and tsunami flooded the Fukushima Dai-ichi nuclear complex, which then began spewing radiation. Local officials and nuclear experts escorted several dozen of them back for a two-hour visit.

"It was just like it was when the quake hit," said Anna Takano, a 17-year-old high school student from Futaba, home to the plant. "It felt very strange."

Many evacuees from the nuclear zone did not realize how long the crisis would drag on and left with only the clothes they were wearing and their purses or wallets.

Due to radiation concerns, officials allowed only two people per household to return.

They gave residents no more than one large black plastic bag because of space restrictions and over fears of contamination.

Radiation levels in most areas have since declined, but are believed to still pose potential health hazards if sustained for long periods of time.

Including those left homeless by the quake and tsunami, more than 100,000 people remain in shelters across northern Japan. More than 25,000 were killed or are missing.

Obama has faith in recovery

JAPAN. U.S. President Barack Obama is meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Naoto Kan on the sidelines of an international summit in France.

As Thursday's meeting got under way, Obama told reporters that Japan will emerge "stronger than ever" after an earthquake and tsunami killed thousands in March and sparked fears of a meltdown at a nuclear plant. Kan thanked the U.S. for its assistance after the disaster.

It was their first meeting since the earthquake, though the two spoke by phone several times.

Arnold's lawyer blasts Enquirer

- Tabloid alleges ex-governor misused his security detail
- Another report claims probe for alleged fund misuse

Arnold Schwarzenegger's lawyer is vehemently denying a report in the National Enquirer claiming that the former California governor allegedly used his security detail in an inappropriate manner.

"Today's story from the National Enquirer is totally and completely false," read the statement from Martin Singer.

A statement from Mark Hammond, a retired police officer who was part of Schwarzenegger's security team, read: "I can say without a shadow of a doubt ... at no time did I see Governor Schwarzenegger say or do anything that could be deemed inappropriate."

Pentagon warns about F-35 cost

A stern warning from a top Pentagon official about the soaring cost of building the F-35 fighter jet has given Canada's defence minister cause for concern.

But Peter MacKay insisted Thursday that his plan to buy 65 aircrafts is sound.

Pentagon officials say the cost of the project has jumped to $385 billion US, about $113 million per plane in 2011 dollars. The original price was $69 million per plane.

MacKay said the Defence Department is in a good position to acquire the jets at a reasonable price. That's because Canada is part of an international consortium that will purchase them when manufacturer Lockheed Martin achieves peak production.

War crimes fugitive arrested in Serbia

Gen. Ratko Mladic, the brutal Bosnian Serb military commander suspected of leading the bloody massacre of 8,000 Muslim men and boys, was arrested in a raid Thursday in Serbia after years in hiding, the country's president said.

The arrest, which comes 16 years after Mladic was indicted by the UN war crimes tribunal for genocide, could be a jolt for Serbia's lagging efforts to join the European Union.

Serbia has been under intense pressure from the international community to catch Europe's most wanted war crimes suspect and the EU has insisted on his arrest as a condition for its membership bid.

UN prosecutors have said they believed the suspect in the worst massacre in Europe since the Second World War was hiding in Serbia under the protection of hardliners who consider him a hero.

Grieving mom speaks out on web bullying

N.S. teen took her own life after being bullied online and with texts

Pam Murchison, mother of 15-year-old Jenna Bowers-Bryanton, has dedicated herself to speaking out against bullying and, in particular, cyberbullying — a problem that advocates and experts say is all too common in this digital age, yet still needs awareness and action.

Murchinson says the torment by her daughter's peers happened at school in Truro, N.S.

"I believe in my heart, and nobody can tell me any different, that it was the bullying that pushed her over the edge."

But she says harassment through text messages and comments posted online was especially troublesome.

"They told her she might as well kill herself, she was no good, she couldn't sing, she was ugly," Murchison recalls.

The Nova Scotia provincial government has announced it will set up a task force on cyberbullying in the wake of Jenna's death. "We hope that what will come out of it is some recognition that (cyberbullying) is societal," said Rosalind Penfound, deputy minister of education.

Mark Grant, convicted in the freezing death of 13-year-old Candace Derksen more than two decades ago, will have to serve 25 years before he is eligible for parole. The decision ends Wilma Derksen's 27-year pursuit of justice. "We grieve," she said outside court Thursday. "This is putting another life away and so that's hard. I don't think it's a day of rejoicing and it doesn't bring Candace back."

Google launches wallet of the future

Google Inc. launched its bid to dominate a world where the smartphone has replaced the wallet as the container for credit cards, coupons and receipts.

The company faces tough competition from cellphone companies and Visa, which all want to play a central role in tying together phones, retailers and banks into a new payment system. Google said Thursday that it's launching a trial of its payment system in San Francisco and New York in co-operation with MasterCard and Citibank. It will open up to consumers in the summer and then expand across the country.

The new Google Wallet will initially work on only one smartphone, the Google Nexus S 4G carried by Sprint Nextel Corp. It will connect only to MasterCard PayPass terminals, 135,000 of which exist in U.S. stores and restaurants.

The mobile payments system is more secure than credit and debit cards with magnetic stripes, but Google apparently faces a challenge in convincing retailers and perhaps also consumers of that.

The Wallet will initially work with a MasterCard from Citigroup Inc. and with a prepaid debit card issued by Google.

Users not so keen to swipe

A recent survey by the Canadian Wireless Telecommunications Association found only 18 per cent of mobile users were interested in swiping their phone at a check-out. Users aged 18 to 34 were somewhat more interested with 27 per cent expressing interest. Users were more willing to swipe a phone for other purposes, such as for using transit passes.

CI Financial wins poison pill dispute

A showdown between two of Canada's biggest financial players resulted in a defeat for the Bank of Nova Scotia on Thursday.

CI Financial Inc. scored the major victory against its largest shareholder when the Ontario Securities Commission ruled that Scotiabank can't vote next week on CI's poison pill plan.

Both companies are huge financial players in Canada, with CI being one of the country's largest mutual fund companies, and Scotiabank being the country's third-largest bank — and a growing presence in the mutual fund industry.

The Toronto Stock Exchange, which has a regulatory role for the companies it lists, supported the bank's demand to vote on whether to renew CI's shareholder rights plan, also known as a poison pill.

IDLE THOUGHTS ARE A WRITER'S PLAYTHINGS

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 Diplomatic immunity: I have a theory about ex-girlfriends. When you see her, and she is all dressed up, flaws temporarily obscured, she suddenly looks good again. But move in together and you will soon be reminded of why and just how much you hated her. It never ends well. In unrelated news, Bob Rae was chosen as interim Liberal party leader this week.

2 Touchdown: Former Super Bowl MVP Hines Ward won the coveted Mirror Ball trophy on Dancing With the Stars this week, which is great because the only thing his friends will make fun of more than being on Dancing With the Stars ... is WINNING Dancing With the Stars!

3 The Story of O: My mother was finally vindicated this week for her comments in 1986. After watching the first Oprah Winfrey Show, she stated, "Echh, this show will never last!"

"Scotty? Or Lauren? Whose musical career will I not follow first? Hmmm ... it's a tough choice."

4 The puck stops here: This week, the city of Vancouver revealed to the rest of the nation the secret to having a successful sports team: Don't live in Toronto.

5 Weather, or not?: There's nothing funny about the devastation caused by tornadoes in the central U.S. this week. What is funny is hearing the idiot with the camcorder say, "UH-OH, IT'S COMING TOWARD ME! Aaaaah ... THUMP!"

6 Diamond hoop dreams: Coming off his best NBA season, former Toronto Raptor and current New Jersey Nets forward Kris Humphries has deprived the North American singles scene of one of its prized members when he proposed to girlfriend Kim Kardashian. This will make him brother-in-law to Los Angeles Laker Lamar Odom, which may be awkward should they face each other in next year's NBA finals. Thankfully, if that happens, the event will take place in fantasy land because he plays for the Nets!

7 Subliminal seduction: After repeatedly listening to Rihanna's current hit, S & M, I believe I have uncovered subtle sexual undertones. My suspicions were confirmed when she opened the Billboard Music Awards in a titillating performance with Britney Spears that can best be described as "really slutty." I, however, much preferred the post-show interview where Britney tells us how much she has grown as a mother.

8 American Idle observations: Great performances by Beyoncé and Gaga. This just in — Tony Bennett is still alive ... sort of. Is it me or did one-half of TLC have one too many BLTs? Marc Anthony is one slick, badass latino stud. He married the "Most Beautiful Woman in the World," and flaunted her before our eyes. And all the while I was preoccupied with the night's "raison d'être." Scotty? Or Lauren? Whose musical career will I not follow first? Hmmm ... it's a tough choice.

I would like to bid American Idol farewell. Adieu to yeu and yeu and yeu. Good riddance.

Worth mentioning

LONDON. A group of researchers claims it has found the most distant explosion ever detected, a pulse of high-energy radiation sent by a disintegrating star near the very edge of the observable universe.

The stellar blast was first spotted by a NASA satellite in April 2009, but researchers announced Wednesday that they have since gathered data placing it more than 13-billion light years away — meaning the event took place when the universe was still in its infancy.

Andrew Levan, one of the scientists behind the discovery, said this blast from the past blew open a window into the universe's early years, showing that massive stars were already dying within the first few hundred million years of the birth of the universe.

This particular explosion wasn't a supernova but a gamma ray burst, the name given to a short but powerful pulse of high-energy radiation. Such bursts, thought to result from the collapse of massive stars into black holes, shoot jets of energy across the universe.

Planning 101: Think before you build

Lots of houses have a two-car garage. Dan Reeves' had a one-airplane basement.

Until, that is, the central Pennsylvania man knocked out a wall to get it out.

Reeves spent the past nine years building a two-seat airplane in the basement of his Cumberland County home. The plane arrived in pieces via mail, but eventually it became way too big to get up the steps.

So Reeves dug a trench down to the foundation and took out a wall. Reeves pulled the plane out Wednesday using a truck, a chain and some neighbours.

Onlookers were drawn to the spectacle by the "Airplane Removal Wednesday" sign put up on Reeves' porch.

Reeves tells the Patriot-News of Harrisburg he spent $40,000 on the plane and about $5,000 on the excavation.

Summer movie season

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin discuss which summer movies they are most looking forward to seeing ◐ Everyone loves a movie that involves aliens

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

The biggest film of last summer was Toy Story 3. What will hit the top of the charts this year? The Reel Guys have a look into their cinematic crystal ball and pick some favourites.

Richard Crouse: Mark, it's the season of crash, boom, bang. Movies with the number 2, 3 and 4 in their titles, and superheroes look likely to rule the summer, and as much as I enjoy a good popcorn movie, the prospect of being bludgeoned by Michael Bay for the next few months isn't the most appealing thought I've had today.

Mark Breslin: Only our editor could force me to see a Michael Bay movie. I am looking forward to the next X-Men installment. It's a franchise that keeps getting better, and this prequel, which takes place in the '60s, seems to fuse real events (the Cuban Missile Crisis) with the sci-fi. Could be a potent combo. Richard, what are you looking forward to?

RC: The best summer movie trailer I've seen so far is for Cowboys and Aliens. I know it will be a loud 'n' proud summer flick, but I haven't ever seen a sci-fi western since Westworld, and anything Daniel Craig does these days is worth laying eyes on. If director Jon Favreau makes this half as much fun as he did the first Iron Man movie, it'll be a treat. Also, I love the name. So B-movie drive-in.

MB: Yes, the trailer looks like a lot of fun. Of course I'm a sucker for good sci-fi. Which brings me to my anticipation for Super 8, J.J. Abrams' take on early Spielberg flicks like ET and Close Encounters; and what will surely be the best movie of the summer, Rise of the Planet of the Apes.

RC: Super 8 looks good to me as well. It looks like Stand By Me with aliens, but since J.J. Abrams keeps his plots under wraps I don't know for sure. Love that. I'm also looking forward to the ape movie. I grew up on the originals, and even had the Aurora model kits when I was a kid. But on a more serious note I really want to see the documentary Project Nim, a kind of real life Planet of the Apes about a chimpanzee raised by a New York City family in the 1970s. Anything other than the blockbusters that you're looking forward to?

MB: Larry Crowne, the Tom Hanks/Julia Roberts vehicle about romance in the downward socially mobile set, looks intriguing, and Bad Teacher, the deliciously amoral Cameron Diaz comedy, appeals to me, but only if she's really, really bad!

Director Allen loves everything about France

American's latest movie Midnight in Paris stars French First Lady

RANIA HOBALLAH
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN CANNES

Woody Allen's latest film, Midnight in Paris was the opening night selection at the Cannes Film Festival. Allen spoke to Metro about his new movie.

The trailer of your movie doesn't show anything about the plot. Was that on purpose?
Yes, because the less people know, the better it is. I want the audience to be surprised. I always try to give the minimum I can in trailers.

On thing we knew is that Carla Bruni, the French First lady, has a part in it.
Yes. A year ago, I was having breakfast with the Sarkozys and Carla was so beautiful and so charming that I offered her to be in one of my movies. I thought she would have a great charisma. She said she would like to play in a movie one day to show her grandchildren when she's old. But it had to be a little part because she didn't have that much time.

Are you happy about her performance?
I think she is wonderful. During the shooting, all the newspapers kept writing that I wasn't happy with her work, that I deleted some scenes. It is not true. She was very good and easy to work with. Her husband even came to watch her one night. He thought she was a natural actress.

Your movie is about going back in time. If you could go back in the past, where would you dream to go?
I would go in New York in the '20s or the '30s. But I would only go there for one day. I couldn't survive with no air conditioning, novocaine or dentist!

What do you like so much about French actresses? Marion Cotillard or Léa Seydoux are in the film.
I was lucky because all three of them are amazing. Marion Cotillard is French but she transcends that. She's an actress that belongs to the world. She is a great artist. I'm lucky she consented to do the movie. Carla was charming even if she didn't have much to do. And Léa is also a wonderful actress. She has a lot of charisma too. I was lucky. I wish I could have more.

It seems like all Americans are in love with Paris...
All Americans are raised to love Paris. I already loved the city before going there for the first time when I was 30 years old. I knew it from the movies. I think Paris is at the height of civilization: It's got music, arts, food, wine, fashion, libraries, architecture. And I particularly love it in the rain.

Despite not being a household name, Kelly Reichardt is an excellent choice for the New Auteurs series at TIFF Bell Lightbox: her four features evince a subtle, precise artistic sensibility. Meek's Cutoff, a fact-based account of a misbegotten wagon train in 19th century Oregon, is her best work to date — a totally convincing period piece that's also a piercing and provocative contemporary political metaphor. ▶ Naomie Harris stars in The First Grader.

Taking on the role of an inspirational figure

In The First Grader, British actress Naomie Harris stars as Jane Obinchu, a Kenyan teacher who risks her career to help an 84-year-old tribesman who takes the new government's offer of "a free education for everyone" literally. Taking on the remarkable true story provided some interesting challenges for Harris, as she explains to Metro.

How was taking on portraying someone who is still alive?
It was really intimidating. I met her before I started, and she had very strong ideas about how she wanted to be perceived. So I felt really scared about meeting Jane, and I kept trying to put it off because if she came in and said, "That is not actually me," or, "That is not how I am," I would have felt really bad about that.

Did your time in Kenya change you in any way?
What I generally get from being in Africa is a sense of warmth and openness. As a stranger, you are always welcomed into people's homes and people are always offering you food. That generosity is incredibly touching. Also, what I got from it is that, in Western society, we look at education as a bit of a chore. It's like, "Ugh, I have to get to school and do my exams." I am sure I have been guilty of that myself. When you go somewhere like Kenya and you see how the children don't have pencils and pens, and all of these things are considered luxuries, and what a privilege they see education as and how hungry they are to learn, I wanted to give my brother and sister long lectures. That definitely stayed with me. NED EHRBAR

Who will get the 'Cannes bump'?

The dust has settled on Cannes, but what does it all mean Will Palme D'or win boost Tree of Life? Has Kristen Dunst resurrected her career?

ADAM NAYMAN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

At a rumoured cost of more than $100 million US, Terrence Malick's drama The Tree of Life may be the most expensive film to ever win the Palme D'or at Cannes, making the question of whether the award will enhance its box-office potential all the more urgent.

The film, which has been compared in its cosmic scale and vast leaps through time to 2001: A Space Odyssey, was supposed to premiere at the prestigious French film festival in 2010, but a complicated series of events involving editing delays and nervy distributors held up plans for the premiere.

For art-house and foreign-language films, a Cannes premiere is like the Fourth of July weekend slot for a Will Smith franchise flick: it's a time when tastemaking critics and ambitious distributors try to put art before commerce. It's also seen as the first stop on the annual film-festival circuit — a launching pad for films that will end up showing around the world.

Whatever its actual commercial potential, Tree of Life will open in June in an attempt to capitalize on its much-publicized Palme, but other Cannes buzz items will only show up in Canada during September's Toronto International Film Festival.

It's likely that one of these will be perennial provocateur Lars Von Trier's new apocalyptic melodrama Melancholia, which saw its director banned from a festival he's dominated for the past decade.

Not because of anything onscreen, but because of his remarks at a press conference claiming (in a badly conceived joke) that he felt some sympathy for Adolf Hitler.

Von Trier has been contrite, but he must know that on some level, any publicity is good publicity, and the combination of controversy and a starry cast — including Kirsten Dunst, who may have resurrected her professional reputation by taking home a Best Actress prize from the official jury — may give Melancholia the biggest "Cannes bump" of all.

Dan for Mayor star, Fred Ewanuick, talks about his character and where he sees the show going this year

IAN JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

HANDOUT

▶ Fred Ewanuick, who plays the mayor in the show Dan for Mayor, says his character isn't dumb, just naive.

You can call the title character of Dan For Mayor a lot of things, but don't call him dumb.

"He's not dumb. Not at all," insists actor Fred Ewanuick, who plays the unlikely mayor of Wessex in the comedy series — which begins its second season June 5th on CTV.

"He's just inexperienced. Naive. He's being put in these situations he's not familiar with. But he's really trying to make an effort to be a good mayor."

Still, audiences can be forgiven for thinking dumb.

For six seasons, Ewanuick played one of the most memorable Canadian TV idiots — Corner Gas' lovable schlub Hank. It's a character that's hard to shake as you're watching Mayor Dan make bad decision after bad decision.

"He's definitely smarter than Hank. Dan's intentions and his logic are always good. But it's always best when he doesn't try so hard to do the right thing."

Fans of Dan For Mayor might be wondering where the comedy will go this season. Afterall, the show is called Dan For Mayor. What's he going to do now that the election is over and he's mayor?

"It's a little different this year. There's not that continuing kind of soap opera plotline. The episodes are self-contained. We also lost a few cast members to other jobs. But there's some great new ones."

The second season of Dan For Mayor premieres June 5th at 7:30 (ET) on CTV.

Don't cut Grammy categories, music coalition urging

A coalition of musicians is demanding the Recording Academy restore more than 30 categories cut from the Grammy Awards, alleging the reductions unfairly target ethnic music and were done without the input of its thousands of members.

A protest was planned Thursday in Beverly Hills, Calif., at an academy board meeting. It is part of a campaign by those upset by last month's decision to reduce the Grammy fields, which this year totalled 109, to 78.

Grammy President and CEO Neil Portnow said changes would be in effect for the 2012 Grammys. But protesters hope the process could be reversed in time for next year's Grammy ceremony if at least one board member asks the academy to reconsider.

"I believe the Grammys have done a disservice to many talented musicians by combining previously distinct and separate types of music into a catch-all of blurry larger categories."

PAUL SIMON, IN A LETTER TO GRAMMY PRESIDENT AND CEO NEIL PORTNOW

"Hopefully during that time, someone will rise and be brave enough and do this," Bobby Sanabria, a four-time Grammy nominee in the Latin jazz category and a leader of the movement against the changes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEST APPS FOR MUSIC DISCOVERY

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

There's just too much music and not enough time.

We spend so much time researching and searching for the next big song/album/artist that we don't spend enough time actually savouring music anymore. This is why so many people rely on recommendations from friends, curators and algorithms.

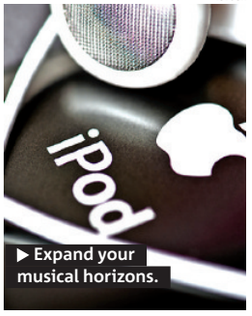
Some have found salvation in various apps for their smartphones and tablets. Here are a few of my favourites.

Discovr (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; $0.99): Fire up the app and enter the name of an artist you like in the search field. Suddenly, the screen blossoms into what looks like a molecule with that first artist at the nucleus. Pictures of people who make similar music radiate outward. Touch any of those connected artists and a new molecule forms with related artists. Frighteningly addictive.

Hitlantis (iPhone, iPad, Android; free): Similar to Discovr, this app displays artists who have registered with the service. Each band appears as a colour-coded planet orbiting the Hitlantis sun. The closer an act is to the sun, the more popular it is with users of the app. If you're interested in indie, unsigned and undiscovered bands, this is a gold mine.

Moodagent (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; $4.99): After analyzing all the music on your device, Moodagent offers a series of emotion-related slider controls that allow you to create mood-based playlists, tailoring the music for your current headspace and location. And should you want to share how you're feeling, Moodagent connects with Facebook and Twitter.

ISTOCK



▶ Expand your musical horizons.

Planetary (iPad, Android; free): When it was released earlier this month, this app spread through the music-loving geek community like a comet. Like Moodagent, Planetary analyzes the music on your device and organizes everything into gorgeous 3-D star charts and planetary systems. Touch on a star or a planet and watch what happens.

Shazam (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; free for the basic version): Ever been somewhere and heard a song that you liked but couldn't identify? With Shazam, you just hold up your device so it can "hear" what's playing. After a few seconds, the app comes back with the name of the song, the artist and a chance to instantly purchase the song right on your device.

SoundHound (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; free for the basic version): Similar to Shazam but boasts the ability to recognize a song in as little as four seconds.

‘My fave concert’

We asked a few hitmakers to take us back in time and share their favourite concert memories with us

▶ Cloud Cult

▶ Papas Fritas

▶ Brian Johnson

▶ The Lonely Island

“Just this last summer at the Download Festival in Donington, it was just unbelievable to play half of the set without the lights because it’s so bright in the sun ... To just go, ‘You know, we’re not using anything but us.’ It was a wonderful moment just knowing it was just you five guys playing to 130,000 fans without any electronic gizmos or any help with pictures or anything.”
Brian Johnson, AC/DC

“The first show I ever saw was the Beach Boys for free at a big public park in Wilmington, Delaware — my hometown. Few things are more enjoyable than listening to the Beach Boys outdoors in the summer, though the Beach Boys sound good any time any place!”
Tony Goddess, Papas Fritas

“My first outdoor concert was the first Lollapalooza ... That was a spiritual experience right there. I remember Jane’s Addiction singing, Summertime Rolls, and it was raining out and it was like, ‘Ahhh, this is so great!’ ... The summertime outdoor shows are the best concerts to attend and the best concerts to perform, because I think the ancient purpose of music is so spiritual — however you want to translate that word — and our ancestors have used it over the centuries in the outdoors, whether singing to the stars or singing for rain or singing for medicine. But it was always working with the natural world, so the experience of being able to be in the outdoors and be able to listen to music and play music just takes the whole ceremony up a few notches.”
Craig Minowa, Cloud Cult

“I went to Reggae on the River. No one was smoking weed. It was crazy ... There were no dreadlocks, no weed, and it smelled great ... Make no mistake though, people SCHMOKED WAAAADE. There’s no way to write that, is there?”
ANDY SAMBERG, THE LONELY ISLAND

“Summer, winter, fall spring — it’s all the same to me. I’m not in school anymore so every day is summer.”

Black Lips
Arabia Mountain
(Vice) June 7
Who: Sharp garage rockers from Georgia, home of the rebel yell.
What: Courtesy of producer Mark Ronson (Amy Winehouse, Adele), the sixth studio album from these Atlanta braves is more crafted than crafty, adding R&B horns and a pop curve.
Why buy: While it's the band's most accessible record, Arabia Mountain retains the Lips' essential snot and spit.

Dave Stewart
The Blackbird Diaries
(Razor and Tie) June 28
Who: The guy behind '70s mod-punks The Tourists and '80s pop giants Eurythmics goes cowboy! Again!
What: Stewart takes a nostalgia trip through rural America (and his youth) talking up Mississippi John Hurt, writing a song with Bob Dylan, and dueting with Stevie Nicks, Colbie Caillat and Martina McBride.
Why buy: Moody rootsy rock, stuffed with stinging guitar licks.

Arctic Monkeys
Suck It and See
(Domino Records) June 7
Who: Yorkshire U.K.-based pop rockers with a smart punk edge.
What: The Monkeys survive the aftermath of the '00s back-to-the-garage movement with an album that has more pomp and stomp, and '70s heavy rock shtick. But always with that sly, wry Arctic afternote.
Why buy: To contemplate the metaphorical implications of a title such as Don't Sit Down 'Cause I've Moved Your Chair.

Queen
News of the World, Jazz, The Game, Flash Gordon, Hot Space
(Hollywood Records) June 28
Who: The band that put the wham bam in glam celebrates its 40th anniversary.
What: Following the winter reissues of Queen's early '70s gems, round two re-ups records from 1977 to '82.
Why buy: To top out the volume and crank We Are The Champions, We Will Rock You and Fat Bottomed Girls.

Neil Young
International Harvester: A Treasure (Reprise Records) June 14
Who: The man who rivals Dylan for world's biggest road hog title.
What: These live cuts date from a time when Young pissed off corporations (including his then label) and went rogue, touring in 1984 and 1985 with this stellar country combo.
Why buy: Five previously unreleased songs.

Vanessa Carlton
Rabbits On The Run
(Razor and Tie) June 28
Who: The girl behind the beautiful piano pop hit, A Thousand Miles.
What: No overbearing over-souling, Carlton delivers her grrl-pop straight, candidly exploring the twits, twists and simple turns of fate that any girl of any age can relate to.
Why buy: Sweet, non-bubblegum pop.

(J-Records ) June 21
Who: Miami rapper Armando Christian Pérez nails vice-like rhymes into hit singles. You've heard him on tracks from T-Pain and the latest from Jennifer Lopez.
What: Pitbull's team on his sixth album reads like a block party A-list: Ne-Yo, Afrojack and Nayer join in on first single, Give Me Everything. T-Pain and Sean Paul add their two cents worth later. Everyone hugs.

The Deer Tracks
The Archer Trilogy Pt. 2
(The Control Group) July 5
Who: Stylish Swedish boy-girl duo David Lehnberg and Elin Lindfors make moody electronic pop.
What: Part 1 was a teasing EP's worth of spiraling folky electronic dream pop; this goes full-length, before another EP, also due this summer, bookends the project. Possible electronic pop opera to follow?
Why buy: To cement the stereotype that all Scandinavians are smart and stylish. We're just jealous.

Festival bound? Best plan ahead

You scored tickets to the summer's hottest festival, but that doesn't guarantee a good time Here's where to stand, what to bring and how to get your money's worth

LUKE O'NEIL
METRO WORLD NEWS

GETTY IMAGES

▶ You do not want to be that girl on the right.

It's summer music festival season, which means hundreds of thousands of concert-goers will herd into dusty fields or the wet grass and pass out from a combination of heat exhaustion and over-indulging. Fun! But don't let it happen to you. There are a few key do's and don'ts to make the most of outdoor shows this summer.

Frank Bombaci Sr. is the organizer of the third annual B.O.M.B. Fest, taking place this May in Hartford, Conn. With marquee acts like Weezer, Snoop Dogg, Wiz Khalifa and Best Coast playing, we figured we could trust him to share some of his tips to do festivals right.

Plan ahead

"You want to get to the event early and stake out some good strategic spots," says Bombaci. "With a festival like ours, there is so much music and multiple stages, you should look at the schedule and map out your strategies. Anchoring your day around the one band you definitely need to see will help you figure out what you have time to check out elsewhere."

Don't lurk by the main stage

"Pay attention to all the stages and really give those artists the opportunity to be heard. At the smaller stages the music is phenomenal, even if lots of times people don't really know who they are," he says. "They might be headlining next year, so now's your chance to see them up close."

What to carry in

"It's always good to bring a rain jacket," says Bombaci. "You never know when the rain gods are gonna open up a bit." Actually, yes you do. During every outdoor concert ever! Another tip: Lots of festivals, like B.O.M.B., have relaxed the restrictions on bringing water into the venue, but not all. Find out ahead of time what you can bring. And, it's obvious but worth noting: "Don't forget to bring sunscreen," says Bombaci. "You watch people over the course of the day turn into lobsters."

But don't bring this

"At our event," says Bombaci, "it's not wise to bring in any kind of cooler. Those aren't going to be allowed. You usually can't bring in a professional-style camera either. Pocket cameras are cool, but people have to be understanding that artists don't like flashes in their faces."

Find the right angle

"One thing about festivals that have multiple stages, there's always sound bleed. It's always a good idea to get close to the stage, and near the centre of the stage, to reduce sound bleed form other stages," advises Bombaci. "If a person can afford it, buy a VIP ticket. It's always going to be in a great viewing area, in the shade out of the sun, and strategically placed so you get good sound quality."

Other mistakes

"I've seen people bring small children to festivals, which is cool to expose them to music and a fun crowd, but you've got to make sure you bring ear protection for kids, and make sure they're lathered up with sunscreen." But what about my other child — the family dog? "Our events don't allow pets, but some do," says Bombaci. "I don't think it's a wise idea."

Like father, like son

Lukas Nelson paving his own road into country music but he is still standing in his famous father's shadow

FRAZER HARRISON/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Musician Lukas Nelson performs onstage during 2011 Stagecoach: California's Country Music Festival at the Empire Polo Club.

Lukas Nelson clearly remembers the conversation that launched him on the path to playing guitar for a living.

Nelson was 10 or 11 and his father, Willie, was showing him a few things on the guitar. The son asked his father what he'd like for his upcoming birthday and the answer changed Lukas Nelson's life.

"He said, 'I want you to learn how to really play guitar,'" Lukas Nelson remembered. "I said, 'OK,' and I did. I fell in love with it. "

"I'm looking really forward to it. We have a lot of fun together and I'm so proud of him that he's doing so good."

WILLIE NELSON ON TOURING WITH HIS SON

Lukas Nelson threw himself into learning the guitar and his progress will be on display this summer when he joins his famous father and a host of rising country music stars on the Country Throwdown Tour. Willie Nelson headlines the travelling festival that kicks off Friday in Philadelphia.

Jamey Johnson, Randy Houser, Lee Brice and Brantley Gilbert among others will join the Nelsons on the 25-city tour. And while the iconic Country Music Hall of Famer is looking forward to seeing those guys, he's really excited to spend the summer touring with his son. No offence.

"Oh, I can't wait," Willie Nelson said. "I'm looking really forward to it. We have a lot of fun together and I'm so proud of him that he's doing so good."

Lukas Nelson released his first self-titled album with his band, Promise of the Real, last year and expects to play 250 or more shows in 2011. There are times when he looks, sounds and plays like his dad, but the 22-year-old guitarist is clearly attempting to cut his own path.

The album is filled with rock 'n' roll, from flaming electric Texas blues rock to spacey and spiritual psychedelia. He covers deep influences Neil Young and Jimi Hendrix on the album and at times sounds more like the offspring of Stevie Ray Vaughn than the heir of the Nelson clan.

This rocker can write

For those about to write, AC/DC's Brian Johnson salutes you Says he has 10 cars now, but only 3 trademark caps

DONALD WEBER/GETTY IMAGES

PAT HEALY

Brian Johnson actually wrote the book, Rockers and Rollers. Not only does this mean that the AC/DC singer didn't have a ghost-writer, but Johnson put actual pen to paper.

"I just had a legal pad and a pen," he says, his cheery speaking voice sounding more like a storyteller who draws you in with a whisper at a pub than the high-pitched scream that has belted out some of the hardest hits to packed rock arenas.

Johnson says he began the book when AC/DC were working on their most recent album. "As a vocalist, when you go into the studio, you usually hang around for a couple of weeks until they get the sound right on the guitars and the drums," he says.

"There's a lot of time doing nothing, so I just started putting these things down."

Johnson's book is not the typical rock 'n' roll story of a small-town kid made good. He tells his tale via the cars in his life.

"My memory is so bad that the only time I remembered things was when I thought of motor cars," he says.

Johnson's jargon

A few expressions from Rockers and Rollers:

- "Rarer than rocking horse s—"
- "The first time I tasted meat was when I bit my tongue."

The writing of Rockers and Rollers is not unlike an AC/DC song. It's humorous, it's fun and it's to the point.

X-factors plague Cole as show removes her

Former Pussycat Dolls singer, Scherzinger, rumoured to be a replacement

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

▶ Cheryl Cole

British star Cheryl Cole is reportedly no longer a part of the U.S. edition of X Factor, Simon Cowell's new singing competition, which is set to premiere in September. While Cole has been a hit on the original U.K. version of the show, there were concerns her accent would be too difficult for American audiences to understand, according to TMZ.

There are reportedly other issues as well, including a "lack of chemistry" with fellow judge Paula Abdul. The change of heart regarding Cole apparently came after taping of the show's audition rounds began in Los Angeles. While there's been no official word on who will replace Cole at the judges table — where Cowell, Abdul and producer L.A. Reid sit — sources claim former Pussycat Dolls singer Nicole Scherzinger, the show's co-host, would step into the role.

While reps for Fox have yet to comment on the story, a source close to Cole tells Us Weekly it's done.

"It's true. She isn't on the show anymore. Everyone is gob smacked. This came out of nowhere. She had already been tested countless times. Simon had nothing to do with it. This is the network's doing." METRO

Talking points

Love sick of hosting the celeb rehab

LIKE KNOWS LIKE. Despite her experience with substance abuse, Courtney Love is sick of younger celebrities coming to her for help.

Twilight star rebuffs Spears' advances

MAYBE IT'S BECAUSE SHE IS IN THE TWILIGHT OF HER CAREER Britney Spears doesn't get everything she wants, apparently, as the singer had her sights set on making out with Twilight hunk Kellan Lutz for her latest video, I Wanna Go, according to E! Online.

But Lutz reportedly turned down the offer to co-star in the video, which would've featured him rescuing her from paparazzi and locking lips in the backseat of a car — until she discovers he's a robot.

There's no word on who will take on the role, though the video reportedly shoots next week. METRO

Grilling tips

Consider these tips when grilling.
• Use clean utensils and plates when removing cooked meats.
• Keep hot food hot until you are ready to serve.
• Ensure meat is well sealed and that ice water doesn't come in contact with stored meat. This can lead to cross-contaminations.

When you fire up the grill this weekend, consider making your own barbecue sauces and meat rubs

Grilling condiments galore

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ MATTHEW MEAD

Making your own grilling rubs and barbecue sauces offers unique flavour options.

Grilling season is here and spice rubs and barbecue sauces are easy ways to pump up the flavour. Grocers offer a huge selection of rubs and sauces intended for steak, chicken, pork, seafood, even veggies.

But consider saving money and making your own. They are easy to assemble and you can better cater to your tastes.

Seven Pepper Grilling Rub

While this rub is wonderful on steak, also try it tossed with chunks of zucchini and summer squash, skewered shrimp and chicken breasts.

Preparation:

1 In a blender or spice grinder, or with a mortar and pestle, grind all ingredients together. Store in sealed jar.

Ingredients:
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) kosher salt
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) brown sugar
- 10 ml (2 tsp) ancho pepper powder
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) red pepper flakes
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) cayenne pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) ground black pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) ground white pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) pink peppercorns
- 5 ml (1 tsp) sweet paprika
- 5 ml (1 tsp) smoked paprika

Maple Apple Bourbon Barbecue Sauce

Tangy or mellow, spicy or mild, barbecue sauce is the icing on the steak — or ribs, or whatever else it is you happen to throw on the grill. Next time you're craving barbecue sauce, try this thick maple-based sauce.

It's a good choice for basting on grilled meats toward the end of cooking.

Preparation:

1 In a medium saucepan over medium-high, heat oil. Add onion, garlic and apples. Cook until onion is a golden brown and apples are quite soft, about 10 minutes.

2 Add all remaining ingredients, then return to a simmer. Reduce temperature to medium, cover and continue to cook, stirring often, for 30 minutes. Adjust salt and pepper. Transfer to a blender, in batches if necessary, then puree until smooth. Cool, then refrigerate in sealed glass jars for 2 weeks.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients:
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) vegetable oil
- 1 medium yellow onion, diced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 apples, peeled, cored and diced
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) grated fresh ginger
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) maple syrup
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) cider vinegar
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) bourbon
- 250 ml (1 cup) chili sauce
- 5 ml (1 tsp) salt
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) ground black pepper
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) cinnamon
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) cayenne

Coolers for the mature crowd

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

If you're over 30, you probably await the arrival of new coolers with the same enthusiasm you reserve for the release of a Britney Spears album.

Influenced by popular flavours of the moment, their sweet personalities are aimed at a younger crowd.

That said, some producers woo a mature crowd with ready-to-drink combos that are as subtle as they are sophisticated. Of this year's cooler crop, Bassano Hard Sodas may be summer's cross-generational drink.

Modelled after the Italian sodas made popular in speakeasies during the Roaring '20s, Bassano blends vodka with sparkling water and natural fruit flavours to create a dry, lightly effervescent, wine-esque beverage.

In fact, both the raspberry jelly candy flavour of the Bassano Hard Soda Raspberry Pomelo (4 x 330 ml, $8.98 - $11.69) and the 7-up sensibility of the Bassano Hard Soda Lemon Sanguinelli (4 x 330 ml, $8.98 - $11.69) beg to be served over ice from a large wine glass.

LeBron takes his talents to NBA finals

| HEAT | BULLS |
|---|---|
| 83 | 80 |

LeBron James, Dwyane Wade and Chris Bosh joined to win a championship. Well, now they have their shot.

James scored 28 points, Wade added 21, and they led a furious rally in the final minutes as the Miami Heat eliminated Derrick Rose and the Chicago Bulls 83-80 Thursday night in Game 5 of the Eastern Conference finals.

James and Wade were simply spectacular down the stretch, each scoring eight points during a game-ending 18-3 run as Miami wiped out a 12-point deficit to win the series.

Now the Heat are headed back to the NBA finals for the first time since 2006, and in a fitting twist, they will be facing the Mavericks. Back then, with Wade leading the way, Miami beat Dallas to capture the championship. This time, it will be James and Dirk Nowitzki going for their first rings.

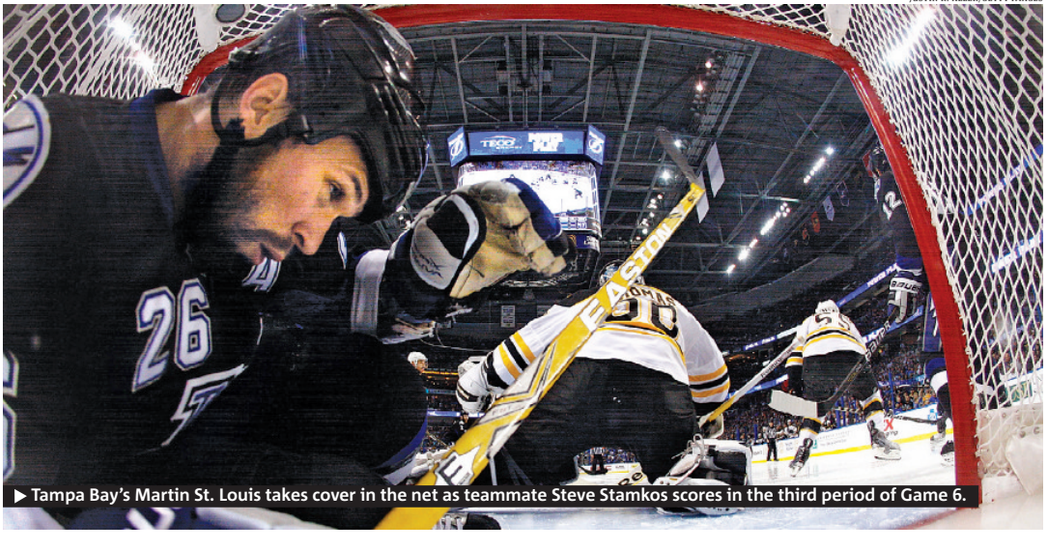
The Heat will host Game 1 Tuesday night.

Bosh added 20 points and 10 rebounds as the Heat pulled out a dramatic win. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lightning intruding on Bruins' Cup plans

Tampa Bay has never lost in three Game 7s since joining the NHL in 1992

JUSTIN K. ALLER/GETTY IMAGES



▶ Tampa Bay's Martin St. Louis takes cover in the net as teammate Steve Stamkos scores in the third period of Game 6.

The Boston Bruins thought they excised the spectre of last season's post-season collapse when they finished off the Philadelphia Flyers in the second round this year.

Yet here they are, one round later, trying to turn back another comeback.

The Bruins play the Tampa Bay Lightning in Game 7 of the conference finals Friday night (CBC, 5 p.m.) with the winner moving on to face the Vancouver Canucks for the Stanley Cup. But Boston could have avoided a winner-take-all predicament if it had merely protected a three-goal lead in Game 4; scored more than one power-play goal a week in the playoffs; or kept Tampa Bay from scoring, as often as not, in the first 90 seconds of the game.

| BRUINS | LIGHTNING |

▶ Time: 5 p.m.
Channel: CBC

"We've got a Game 7, it's at home, and we're one game away from the Stanley Cup finals. Why shouldn't we be excited?" coach Claude Julien said Thursday. "Our guys are not discouraged or disappointed. The past is the past. We've got an opportunity to win a hockey game and get into the Stanley Cup finals."

The Bruins spent most of this season trying to forget blowing a 3-0 lead to the Flyers and their demons seem to have returned.

Leading the series 2-1 in Game 4, the Bruins opened up a 3-0 lead before allowing five straight goals in a loss. The Bruins also led 3-2 in the series, with a 2-1 lead after one period of Game 6, before the Lightning came back to win 5-4.

The Bruins can call on their experience in Game 7 against Montreal in the first round, but Tampa is more familiar with elimination games. The Lightning fell behind the Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1 in the first round before winning three straight to advance. Wednesday's victory over Boston made them 4-0 this season in elimination games and goalie Dwayne Roloson is 7-0 in his career when facing elimination.

Back to the future

Matthew Wuest compares this year's Cup finalist Canucks with their 1994 counterparts, the most recent Vancouver team to play for the NHL's top prize

1994

The Pat Quinn-coached Canucks were barely .500 in the regular season (41-40-3 with 85 points) and fell behind 3-1 in their first-round series against Calgary. But they rallied to triumph in seven, getting the series winner from Pavel Bure in double overtime. After dispensing of Dallas and Toronto in five games, they fell to the New York Rangers in a seven-game final.

THE RUN

2011

The Canucks survived injuries en route to a 54-win, 117-point Presidents' Trophy campaign. Their season looked like it would become unhinged in the first round when they blew a 3-0 series lead to Chicago, but Alex Burrows saved the day with the overtime series winner in Game 7. They then took down Nashville in six games and San Jose in five.

FORWARDS

Pavel Bure, the Russian Rocket, was the star of the show, following up a 60-goal season with a 16-goal, 15-assist playoff performance in his finest season as a Canuck. Trevor Linden led a supporting cast that also featured Cliff Ronning, Geoff Courtnall, Greg Adams and Murray Craven.

There might not be a player as dominating as Pavel Bure, but the Sedin twins pack a tremendous 1-2 punch. Throw in Ryan Kesler's two-way presence and the second-tier scoring of Alex Burrows and Mason Raymond and you see why the Canucks led the league in goals scored.

DEFENCE

The late-season acquisition of Jeff Brown from St. Louis gave the Canucks the power-play quarterback they needed. Brown's six goals and nine assists in 24 games led all Canucks blue-liners and made him a perfect complement to fellow trade pickup Bret Hedican and incumbents Jyrki Lumme, Dave Babych and Gerald Diduck.

The Canucks stocked up on defencemen in the off-season and worked salary-cap magic to keep them all. Christian Ehrhoff, Kevin Bieksa, Alexander Edler and Dan Hamhuis have logged 20-plus minutes per game in the top four. Sami Salo has rebounded from injuries to play a key support role along with Aaron Rome and Keith Ballard.

GOALIES

Kirk McLean, the franchise's all-time leader in wins and starts, was at his best during this playoff run, going 15-9 with a 2.29 goals-against average and a .928 save percentage. Kay Whitmore, in the early stages of a journeyman career, served as McLean's backup.

Roberto Luongo's first-round benching — which lasted just 42 minutes because of an injury to backup Cory Schneider — is now a distant memory. He turned in a 54-save gem in Game 5 of the conference final and has a 2.29 goals-against average and .922 save percentage in 18 starts.

KEY DEALS

When Canucks holdout Petr Nedved signed with St. Louis in early March, an arbitrator awarded the Canucks Craig Janney as compensation. But when Janney wouldn't report, the Canucks shipped him back to St. Louis for blue-liners Jeff Brown and Bret Hedican and forward Nathan LaFayette, a move that bolstered their depth for the post-season.

The off-season free-agent signing of Dan Hamhuis to a five-year, $27-million contract solidified the defence corps. Meanwhile, the last-minute trade-deadline pickups of Maxim Lapierre and Chris Higgins ensured the Canucks didn't miss a beat after losing regular forwards Manny Malhotra and Mikael Samuelsson to season-ending injury.

PAYROLL

The Canucks had a payroll of less than $12 million in 1993-94. Just two players — goalie Kirk McLean ($1.1 million) and seldom-used forward Jimmy Carson ($1 million) — made more than $1 million, and 16 players earned less than the current league minimum of $500,000.

The Canucks had one of the top payrolls in the NHL, spending up to the $59.4-million salary cap — five times the 1994 payroll. The roster features 17 millionaires, and Roberto Luongo's $10-million salary falls only $2 million shy of the payroll of the entire 1993-94 squad.

HIGHEST PAID

Kirk McLean: $1,100,000
Jimmy Carson: $1,000,000
Jeff Brown: $900,000
Trevor Linden: $759,800
Pavel Bure: $706,614

The highest paid player in the league was Eric Lindros at $3.35 million, followed by Steve Yzerman at $3.2 million and Mario Lemieux and Wayne Gretzky at $3 million each.

Roberto Luongo: $10,000,000
Henrik Sedin: $6,100,000
Daniel Sedin: $6,100,000
Ryan Kesler: $5,000,000
Dan Hamhuis: $5,000,000

Luongo is tied with Vincent Lecavalier as the highest paid in the league. Sidney Crosby, Evgeni Malkin and Alex Ovechkin were next at $9 million each.
